

Re: Junior Writing Portfolio

Matthew Sottile <mjsottile@me.com>

Mon 1/8/2018 11:37 PM

To: Hayward, Christopher <christopher.hayward@wsu.edu>;

Cc: msottile@math.wsu.edu <msottile@math.wsu.edu>;

Hi Chris-

Sorry for the delay - I was on an airplane for most of the day coming back from vacation.

Given that was a relatively short assignment, I'd say 'acceptable' is fair. If there was something between acceptable and exceptional, I'd choose that, since 'exceptional' I'd interpret as 'publication worthy'. I'm assuming 'acceptable' is interpreted as good, not bad, right? (I'm not familiar with the junior writing portfolio process, so...)

-m

On Jan 8, 2018, at 6:28 AM, Hayward, Christopher <christopher.hayward@wsu.edu> wrote:

Hey Professor Sottile,

I am working on putting together my junior writing portfolio to continue with classes here at WSU and I was hoping you would be willing to asses one of my assignments from last semester (Math300). Attached is a copy of the Lorenz homework. For the portfolio I need an assessment of if you consider my writing "acceptable" or "exceptional" for a college writing level.

Thanks,

Chris Hayward.

<lorenz-attractor.pdf>